InstaCalc

The screenshot shows the InstaCalc website interface. At the top, there's a search bar for the 'instacalc' library and a 'Latest' tab. The main workspace is a grid with rows labeled R1 through R10. Each row has an input field and a result field. The results are displayed in red and green text. A 'Button Pad' is located on the right side, featuring various mathematical symbols and functions. Below the button pad, there are links for 'Your Calcs' and 'Help'. The interface is clean and modern, with a dark header and a light grid background.

Row	Input	Result
R1
R2
R3
R4	//Just type for instant results	Just type for instant results
R5	2*2 + 3/4 + sqrt(9)	7.75
R6	sales = 300 million + 10%	330,000,000
R7	10 inches to cm	25.4 cm
R8	150 lbs in kg	68.0388555 kg
R9	100 USD in EUR	81.77 EUR
R10	15 mph in meters/sec	6.7056 meters/sec

Additional features visible in the screenshot include a 'Button Pad' on the right with buttons for mathematical operations, a 'Your Calcs' tab, and a 'Help' tab. There are also links for 'Basic Calculator & Examples' and 'Available on the Mac App Store'.

Instacalc is a different kind of calculator. First of all it is online, but interactive – it allows you to view answer as you type. It is a slim down version of spreadsheet, which it has number of useful function calls and graph drawing functionality. Another interesting feature is sharing, which you can insert a javascript snippet into your web page. This is pretty useful for doing some quick calculations, but normal calculator couldn't do justice because it is too simple, or spreadsheet is an overkill for it.

The website sells a nifty type of ink that is used to create images on cotton, linen, silk, rayon, canvas, and any other natural & absorbent fiber. The process is similar to film processing in that the ink is sensitive to the UV rays in the sun. You create a negative of an image, or use objects to shadow your material, expose the dye to the sun and viola! you have a wonderful and unique design. Simply wash the fabric and now your print is permanent, no more developing and fading in the washer!

From the people who built

TransferWise is the clever new way to send money abroad. The idea is very simple. Banks have been treating people unfairly for decades. They charge you huge fees when you send your money abroad. Then they hide more fees in unfair exchange rates. TransferWise has found a simple way to bypass the banks and make money transfers transparent and fair. Like they should be. The pricing is transparent, the exchange rate is the real one, and the small fee is easy to spot. It costs up to ten times less than what your bank really charges. It's a little revolution.

WordPress

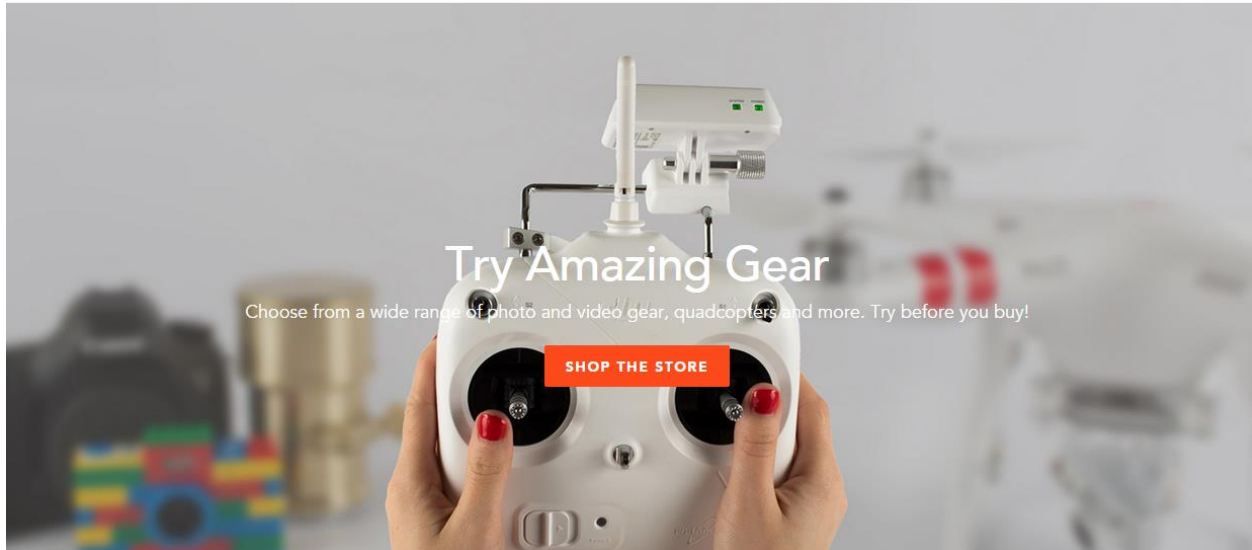

WordPress is an online, open source website creation tool written in PHP. But in non-geek speak, it's probably the easiest and most powerful blogging and website content management system (or CMS) in existence today. Among the various blogging platforms, WordPress is definitely one of the most popular blogging programs. There are two types of WordPress platforms: WordPress.com and WordPress.org. For the former, your site is hosted by WordPress and you will be assigned a subdomain website (e.g. yourname.wordpress.com). The benefit for hosting your website under WordPress.com is that it costs you nothing.
